Finishing Touches Being Put On Club's Final Presentation of Year

PICK PLAYS "RALEIGH"

Marine Officers Add Realistic
Military Touch to Setting
Of Play

Terminating four strenuous weeks of preparation, "Journey's End," the most real of the "real life" dramas arising from the World War, will be presented by Cue and Curtain Thursday and Friday night at 8:30 at Wardman Park Theatre.

In order that the technical details of the play will be correct, the club has secured the services of two members of the Sixth Marine Reserve Major Don S. Knowlton and Gunner Sergeant John D'Espears. These officers are expected to add materially to the realistic setting of the drama.

Author Was Soldier

"Journey's End" was written by R. C. Sherriff, who took an active part in the World War. While at the front, Sherriff wrote letters and kept diaries which he later decided contained good material for a play.

This play, which won success overnight in England, shows all phases of life at the front—intense pathos caused by the death of the young lieutenant; humor arising from the antics of the cockney servant; tension developed by long minutes of waiting for the big raid, and sentiment arising from the meeting of two school chums.

Stevens, Pick, Stepler in Leads

The production brings before the audience the following members of Cue and Curtain: Leonard Stevens, as Stanhope; Walter Pick, Raleigh; Harold Stepler, Osborne; Stanley Petersen, Mason; Sylvan Lappan, Trotter; Kenn Romney, Hibbert; Bill Claudy, Hardy; Karl Gay, the Colonel; Hamilton Coit, the sergeant-major; Stuart Abrahams, the German prisoner; James Kinella and George Conn, the British privates.

Seats are going rapidly, especially to the various military organizations around town. Floyd Sparks, business manager of Cue and Curtain stated. He urges all students with season tickets to present them in the Cue and Curtain Office, second floor of Building Q, immediately, so that they will be able to obtain seats for the play.

Navy Officer Speaks On Student Reserves

Lieutenant Cloukey Tells of Selection, Training of Reserve Officers

Lieutenant M. M. Cloukey, U. S. N., aide to the commanding officer of the U. S. Naval Air Station will speak tonight at 6 o'clock in K-12 concerning the selection and training of naval aviation students in the Naval and Marine Corps Reserves, according to John R. Lapham, Dean of the School of Engineering.

Selections for this course in naval flight training are to be made by competitive examination from among college graduates. Graduating seniors are eligible to enter the competition. Sixteen men will be selected, including ten who will enter the Navy and six who will enter the Marine Corps. This two-year course will take place at the U. S. Naval Air Base at Pensacola, Fla. In addition to instruction, the men selected will receive pay of fifty-four dollars a month and will be provided with all necessities including medical care and uniforms.

Graduates of the course will be commissioned ensigns in the Navy or second lieutenants in the Marine Corps Reserve. After one year of active duty in the Naval Service Squadron they will reenter civil life as reserve officers.

Weisz Presents Art Exhibit At Corcoran

An exhibition of special interest to students of George Washington University is of water colors and drawings by Mr. Eugene Weisz, lecturer and graphic art critic in the Division of Fine Arts. The exhibit opened in the Corcoran Art Gallery April 14 and will continue to May 10.

Especially notable in the collection are eight still-life studies, and fruit in varying combinations, which are brilliantly colored and rendered with amazing skill. The interesting broad-brush technique enables the paint when dry to lose none of its richness of color.

Under Mr. Weisz's hand such unattractive structures as the "Old Brewery" and gas tanks are rendered interesting. The interpretative power of the artist is especially notable in his treatment of sunlight. His portrait drawings in charcoal give an outstanding indication of a sound knowledge of structure and draftsmanship.

Council Takes Steps To Clear Freshman, Junior Prom Deficits

Will Appeal to Student Organization for Donations Sufficient to Erase Sum

Definite steps toward clearing up the Junior Prom and Freshman Frolic deficits of last year were taken by the Student Council at its meeting last Thursday night with the appointment of a committee headed by Bernard Fagelson, to appeal to the student body for contributions.

The committee, appointed by Council President William Helvestine, Sunday night decided it will contact every one of the 122 organizations on the campus and each will be asked to cooperate in the drive for funds.

Dean William Allen Wilbur who was present at the Council meeting asked for the privilege of being the first to contribute towards defraying this deficit, which has been a blot upon the prestige of the University. Within five minutes, $15.50 was collected from the Council members and others present at the meeting.

All donated funds will be handled through the offices of the Treasurer of the University.

The members of the women's committee are Amanda Chittum, Mary Lee Watkins, Katherine Cutler and Theresa Herman.

The men's committee is composed of John Madigan, Sam Detwiler, Walter Rhinehart and Joe Danzansky.

Lee Wins Engineer Scholarship Trophy

Dean Lapham Presents Activities Award to Johnson
At Annual Banquet

More than 130 alumni, fathers, prominent guests, faculty members, and students were present at the sixth annual banquet given by the School of Engineering last Wednesday evening in the attractive Italian Garden of the Mayflower Hotel. Classes of thirty years back were represented at the banquet.

A feature of the program was the presentation by Dean Lapham of two of the awards given by honorary engineering fraternities. James L. Johnson received the Phi Theta Xi activities plaque and Hoburg B. Lee the Sigma Tau award for freshman scholarship.

The homecoming atmosphere of the affair was emphasized when the toastmaster, Professor Norman Bruce Ames, called for the oldest alumni and youngest father. It was discovered that Mr. William C. Thom of the class of '04 was the oldest alumni present. He is the father of a student now in the Engineering School.

The speaker of the evening was Brigadier General George B. Pillsbury, assistant chief of the Army Engineers, whose subject was "The Engineering Features of the St. Lawrence Waterway." General Pillsbury has made a special study of this currently interesting and controversial subject.

President Marvin opened the program with a short address of greeting. Representatives of all local branches of the large engineering societies gave short talks which were marked by a good deal of good natured rivalry about the respective merits and importance of the civil, mechanical, and electrical branches of the profession.

Troubadour Casting Takes Final Form

McCullough, Lilley Get Parts;
Three Male, One Female
Singer Needed

Two changes were made last week in the Troubadour cast for the forthcoming production, "Take It Easy." Annabelle McCullough will play Mrs. Fredricks and Don Lilley will replace Edward Andrus as Dean, the butler. There still are openings for three men with good singing voices to play three "club members" roles, and for a feminine vocalist to sing in a "crazy motion" type of song. Students wishing to try out for these parts should report for rehearsal tonight at 7:30 in W-29.

Feature numbers in the show include an octet of tap dancers: Mildred English, Alice Frink, Billie Solomon, Constance Lenseson, Miriam Schmidt, Mary Fulham, Julia Turner, and Betty Hartung, and a tango number by Billie Solomon and Jack Greer.

There are 14 musical numbers in "Take It Easy," including a love ballad, "Journey's End," having no connection with the current play; a tango; "Cavalier," a slow fox trot, "Let's

Committee Discusses Social Rules Changes With Council

An executive session of the Committee on Student Life, in conjunction with the Student Council, was held at Lambie House last Thursday night to discuss recommended changes in the social calendar and the rules of chaperonage.

The problems of the University's social and extracurricular organizations were opened to analysis and a committee was appointed to investigate and report back on its findings at the next meeting to be held in the immediate future. At that time definite decisions will be made as to future changes and announcements will be issued.

S. A. E., Sigma Kappa Uphold Affirmative Against Phi Sig, Kappa Delta

In the finals of the intramural debates tomorrow at 8:15 p. m., in Corcoran Hall, Sigma Alpha Epsilon will meet Phi Sigma Kappa and Kappa Delta will oppose Sigma Kappa. The winning fraternity and sorority will be awarded silver loving cups by Delta Sigma Rho, honorary speech arts fraternity.

Ruth Critchfield and Leila Holley will take the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved, That the United States should adopt the British System of Radio Control," against Margaret Liebler and Clementina Lawrie of Kappa Delta in W-27.

S. A. E. Upholds Affirmative
Lowell Bradford and Scott Kirkpatrick, representing Sigma Alpha Epsilon, will argue on the affirmative in opposition to the Phi Sigma Kappa team of John Lathrop and William Donaldson in W-15.

In the semifinals last Wednesday, Sigma Mu Sigma, taking the negative side of the question, was defeated by Sigma Alpha Epsilon, after having defeated Theta Upsilon Omega and Sigma Chi in the two previous rounds. The team consisted of Thomas Hall and Herbert Wildman. John Brandt was the judge.

Phi Sigs Take Sigma Nu
With victories over Tau Alpha Omega and Delta Tau Delta, Burke Drury and Byron Hoffman of Sigma Nu were defeated by Phi Sigma Kappa of the negative. Professor R. J. Seagar was the judge.

There was only one sorority debate, since Sigma Kappa drew a bye. Leonore Rosenthal and Nellen Cooper of Phi Sigma Sigma lost to Kappa Delta, the victors having the negative. The judge was Prof. John A. McIntyre.

Prof. Owens' Book Deals With N. R. A.

New Text "Business Organization and Combination"
Appears Friday

In a new book "Business Organization and Combination," Dr. Richard Norman Owens, professor of Accounting and Business Administration in the University, endorses the principles of the National Industrial Recovery Act. In the book, which comes from the press Friday, Dr. Owens declares that "the general welfare demands that government exercise more control over industry than it undertook prior to the depression that began in 1929."

Giving an explanation of present day methods of social control, he traces in detail non-corporate, corporate, and other combinations such as pools, gentlemen's agreements, holding companies and cooperatives. The history of the anti-trust legislation is discussed, and recent laws such as the Securities Act, Railway Transportation Act, Banking Act, and industrial provisions of the National Recovery Act are analyzed.

N. R. A. Has Possibilities

Dr. Owens, in his final chapter, makes the assertion that even though the plan of the N. R. A. may not operate perfectly, it "offers great possibilities for good," and that "We shall learn much by experience with it and the difficulties may be overcome as they are encountered."

According to Dr. Owens increased supervision of industry is "inevitable" stating that "It is now universally recognized that the prosperity of one group depends upon the prosperity of all the rest."

The benefits of the act, according to Dr. Owens, are acknowledged by well-organized and influential groups representing both industry and labor, and adds: "Certain features of the administration of the act no doubt will be modified, but the act will leave a permanent effect upon the policy of the government toward industrial and business organization."

BALLOTING WED., THUR.

Registration in Law, Columbian College, Warrants Only
One Representative

Students in Law School and Columbian College will not know whether they vote for one or two representatives to the Student Council on Thursday and Friday until the ballots are available on Thursday morning it became known last night.

The present Council will meet at 7:45 p. m., tomorrow in Lambie House, when a proposal to amend the constitution to allow both the Law School and Columbia College two representatives, will be voted upon.

Under the constitution, as it now reads, the registration in those schools only warrants one member.

Helvestine decided to call the meeting last night to avoid the possibility of either holding an illegal election or naming the second highest candidate in each school after the next regular meeting of the Council when the constitution could be amended.

Floyd Resolution

The resolution offered by Councilman Bourke Floyd at last Thursday's meeting, is:

"Be it Resolved by the Student Council of George Washington University, That Article II, Section 2 of the Constitution be amended to read:

That the enrollment used to estimate Student Council representation shall be that registration computed by the Registrar during the semester in which elections are to be held, and further,

That the representation on said Council shall be registered, subject to that no college of the University

A Plea for Contributions

THE promoters of the Junior Prom and Freshman Frolic last year made some almost inexcusable errors in financing of those events and everyone connected with the University has been bothered by collectors since.

The Hatchet and many others pointed out the folly of such over-ambitious plans at that time but all of this is "water gone over the dam."

However, the wolf is still howling around in Provost Wilbur's front yard. He has been confronted by the strange situation being asked for several hundred dollars to pay for a prom and field day in his own honor. Creditors have found he is the only one whose name is connected with the office who is financially responsible.

Realizing that "Dean" Wilbur is liable to be the victim of circumstances which instead of doing him honor will swindle him, the Student Council will begin a drive next week for contributions to pay these deficits.

There will be no attempt to sell anything; only a small contribution will be asked and we hope that will be the last we hear of a Junior Prom debt. The idea seems a good one. No one will miss a nickel or a dime and willing contributing will indicate a true spirit of respect for the fine old gentleman and scholar esteemed by everyone who ever entered George Washington as a freshman.

When the plans were announced at the Council meeting Thursday, Dean Wilbur, in attendance, said, "Let me be the first to contribute," and handed a five dollar bill to the chairman of the committee. More than $13 was contributed at the meeting. The Hatchet appeals to you to do your best.

Vote! "Mr. Average"

WHAT the Student Council is to be it is this week becoming.

To you, Mr. or Miss average student, The Hatchet appeals, to carry this election Thursday and Friday for those candidates who will be a credit to your college or school.

If you permit a few irresponsible and incapable people to pull political strings enough and trade votes enough to elect the type of people who now appear to have the best chance of winning, you will be even more disgusted with the Council next year than you have been this year.

The Council is not a useless body. It can and has performed a number of functions for the benefit of the student body. Much of this work is inconspicuous, "only the evil that men do lives after them." But most of the time the Council looked ridiculous in silly long-winded debates which didn't accomplish anything and as a matter of fact lowered the prestige of the Council so that now no one will trust it to do anything.

Please take an interest in this election and be sure you cast a ballot and vote for the right candidates. When a man is elected from your school, you and the other students of your school have endorsed him as the finest man you can find—as better a man than you are.

You want a keen-witted, straight thinker, who knows when to be ambitious and when not to be, one who is primarily interested in administering student government and not interested in imitating a senator. Probably the best place to judge them is in your classes. The most sensible men and women are not always the most active ones; they haven't all been presidents or directors or managers or even editors but they will make brilliant directors.

Again we plead with you as the average student interested in getting an intelligent Council elected, be sure to vote.

A STUDENT UNION

The Kentucky Kernal

THE number of colleges in the vicinity of the University of Kentucky having student union buildings is surprisingly large. Vanderbilt, Purdue, Alabama, Ohio State, Chicago University, Michigan, and Duke are just a few on the impressive list.

All the schools heard from have the same attitude. They consider their union buildings as being very essential to the best interests of their students. J. A. Bursley, dean of students at the University of Michigan writes, "It is hard to imagine how we could get along without the Union. Of course, I know that if we did not have it, we should get by in some way, but certainly we are doing many things which we could not do without the facilities offered by it."

These schools saw the need for union buildings and then proceeded to procure them. Their money-raising methods were no easier than our own will be. The point is, they recognized and met a nationally felt college need. Duke and Purdue have elaborate union buildings.

We, at Kentucky, see no particular virtue in "keeping up with the Joneses" under most circumstances, but, in this particular case, we do. Other schools in our class do. We realize the need and importance of such a building as a student study and social center, and for welding into a more understanding and harmonious group the diversified elements of university life. Why not a Student Union building at the University of Kentucky?

OUT IN THE WORLD

By GEORGE Y. JARVIS

ITS open season for fish stories. Even the respectable Washington Post carried one on its front page last Friday.

A lawyer and a judge, trout fishing in West Virginia, ran out of bait. Attorney Wyatt searched his pockets in vain, but finally found an aspirin tablet. Just for luck he fastened it to his hook, cast it—and with it landed the biggest trout to date.

Being of that serious type, we find this reminds us of something important. Even a poor fish with a headache may catch something worse.

Seriously, Uncle Sam's Food and Drug Administration warns that such things as headache pills and sleeping powders have caused deaths, even when taken in the doses indicated on the labels. The food and drug laws, while strict in curbing untruthful labels, fall down when it comes to requiring things to be put on labels that we should know.

Many a girl has burnt out her health, blindly dosing herself with drug store preparations to take off weight. Some hair tonics contain lead or arsenic, either of which may be absorbed into the system and cause poisoning. There are cases of women made bald from the use of depilatories which contain thallium, a substance widely used in rat poison.

THERE are a hundred other reasons why Congress should pass the pure food and drugs bill which is now before it. But every small town paper and all the cheap periodicals are under tremendous pressure to attack it, because the

JUST BETWEEN US--

By LUDWIG CAMINITA, JR.

SINCE there is no other channel through which this news may be imparted to students interested in campus politics, I will break a vow made with myself—namely, never to mention Student Council activities again. It seems that this time the Council has decided that its own constitution isn't one to be taken too seriously, even by itself. According to an active Council member, the Law School, Columbian College representation will remain at two each, despite the fact that the constitution definitely declares that representation shall be on the basis of population.

The student council legislators decided that in the case of the two aforementioned colleges it was all wrong to limit the representation to one lone member—so someone brought forward a resolution which would correct that error. But unfortunately the resolution will not be passed until the next meeting, which will be held after the elections. In other words, the two members will be elected in violation of the very constitution the council members are attempting to uphold. This understand, all according to a well-informed representative. But then the exclusive Hatchet check-up story was as much news to the Council last week as it was to the general reader, so you needn't wonder as to the why of the continued series of blunders and errors cropping up throughout.

FINALLY returns the old question of the Junior Prom and Freshman Frolic. For one year now, the Sophomore and Senior classes have been in debt to the extent of some hundred dollars. A few feeble attempts were made to clear the senior issue. The debts still exist. Sophomores may be nonchalant; they have two years left in which to pay for their Frolic.

Seniors must be more serious—tradition and circumstances ask it. Should the Class of 1934 leave this institution owing a large sum of money, it will be the first time, to my knowledge, that such an event has occurred. I could have said "disgrace" instead of "event," but let us be polite.

The point is that approximately one month from today the seniors leave George Washington University. It is up to them to efface a smudge from their page of history. Small contributions from a number of campus organizations will suffice. The Seniors are doing their best now and the groups must come through. I am certain they will.

CUE and Curtain's last production of a most successful season plays at Wardman Park Theatre next Thursday and Friday nights. In my humble opinion it will be rated among the better, if not the best, play ever presented in District amateur circles. "Journey's End," always rated a difficult piece is the test for college players. Cue and Curtain will meet it.

The set, the last to be constructed by Production Manager Lusby, will prove to be the best stage work ever seen on campus. The acting: up to par. Incidentally, you might keep an eye upon this chap Pick, who played so well in "Three-Cornered Moon." If Pick doesn't win your approval in that scene between Stevens and himself, when the sensitive soldier returns wounded, nothing will.

Incidentally, while we mention the fact, you might give a little round of pre-play applause to the stage crew and sound effect men. Giving the impression of a sure-enough war is no simple task and the sound men have done well indeed—judging from rehearsals.

Of course, I'm a little prejudiced. Anything Constance Conner Brown turns out is first rate, in my opinion. If you have ever seen her at rehearsals, you would think so, too.

This is my pre-view prediction: I feel certain it will be my "after the show" opinion.

Gettysburg Doesn't Choose To Run

Collecting $100 Easy Compared With Finding Beauty Queen in a College Exclusively for Men

TO appreciate this bit of unconscious humor you must know that Gettysburg is a man's college. Reprint from The Gettysburg News To the editor:

We are going to find the most beautiful college girls in America. Each college in the United States will hold a contest to choose the girl who will represent it. The girls will be judged for beauty of face and body, personality, charm, and physique. The national contest will be in Hollywood, Calif., some time next summer. The winner will be titled the "All-American Co-ed." What greater honor could be given an American girl?

We are depending on you to sponsor the contest at Gettysburg College. Each sorority and dormitory can enter a beauty, and of course the contest should be open to any student. We suggest that you stage the contest in a local theatre or auditorium. We do not care how you operate your contest, how much money you realize, or what awards you give your queen. Just send us your prettiest girl, and $100 to help defray her expenses and transportation to and from the national contest. We will also take care of all her expenses while she is in Hollywood, and show her a wonderful time. The girls will have a chance to "get in the movies," if they are interested.

This contest is not to be classed with beauty contests, picking Miss This or Miss That, that are run all over the country. Ours will be a clean and dignified affair with but one thought: The glorification of the American Co-ed.

You will have to get your contest started at once. If it is impossible for you to handle it yourself, turn it over to some other competent individual. The big thing is: We must have beauty from Gettysburg. Please see that immediate arrangements are made for your contest. Let us know about your plans by return mail.

DAILY Californian proof-readers caught these two mistakes in the woman's supplement:

"She was lounging in a pair of jade green pajamas with a train in her room."

"B— was chairman of the souse's father's dinner at the Tri-Delt house."

A co-ed at St. Olaf College, in an examination, defined "prerogative" as a cure for tapeworm.

The principal drawback to the radio as the "official organ" of a President is that the far-flung audience can't see the celebrated smile over the air. There would be a drawback in putting Mae West on the air too.

Critic Approves New Year Book

By John Bandstra

THE Cherry Tree of 1934 will be presented to the general campus next Tuesday at 9 a. m., the publications office informed us. But we were impatient, and so rushed in for our annual pre-view of this issue which has claimed the attention of not a few critics. Frankly, words are difficult to find which would adequately describe this latest publication.

There still remain a number of extra copies for those individuals who wish to purchase one. To return to the book:

Throughout the volume the theme of sailing vessels is used. In keeping with this mode the issue is dedicated to Provost William Allen Wilbur, who has always been fond of the sea.

One can feel quite safe in making the statement that this is undoubtedly the acme of artistic work—so far as Cherry Tree artists are concerned. Particularly effective are the numerous sketches of the seaport characters and docks illustrated in blue-toned pages. The reading material, too, reverts from the usual stereotyped yearbook styles to a pithy, spirited story.

As a whole, the outstanding thing that creates favorable impression is the manner by which the book sections are so effectively linked by the history of the sea. Transition is so well done one doesn't notice it. Distinctly a first rate Cherry Tree: it should meet with popular approval.

Did You Know That - - -

By ELEANOR HELLER

OF THE 525 principal universities of the country, George Washington ranks twenty-fifth in respect to age and there are but 29 others, most of which are State supported institutions, which have larger student bodies or teaching staffs.

The great-grandfather of John Garland Pollard, former Governor of Virginia, helped to found The George Washington University and members of Mr. Pollard's family through five generations have attended the University.

The organization of graduate work under the Graduate Council at George Washington University has been termed by the late Henry Suzzallo of the Carnegie Foundation "the outstanding contribution to graduate work which has been given to this Nation."

Colin Clive, famous English actor, was imported from London to play the role of "Captain Stanhope" in the motion picture version of "Journey's End," being made in Hollywood. He then dashed back to London where he had the role in the original stage production.

It happened to one of the English professors at Detroit University—"If I were to say, 'I had money,' that would be the past perfect tense; but, if I were to say, 'I have money,' what tense would that be?"

"Pretense," suggested a back-of-the-room wit.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor of The Hatchet:

I MOVE that the Student Council rise and justify its existence. I, like 6,000 other students—less the members of that august body—wonder of what value it is, or what service it furnishes. I fully appreciate the advantages the University offers as a political training grounds, but why couldn't the aspirants form some organization of their own, and conduct their own ballyhoo without annoying the rest of the school? Why bother us with shammed hand shaking, back slapping, etc?

And after the election, what then? Apparently individual members feel they have gained some prestige. If so it is certainly an empty honor, for no one envies them their position. Candidates are not even contented in their campaigning, except by another occasional embryo politician. While they may spend sleepless nights worrying over the election outcome the vast majority of the student body look in with amused indifference.

My criticism is not with the particular student "government" at this University. It embraces the same system at every school, where a like situation is invariably found. The so-called "government" exercises little or no governmental power. It is true that at some schools student councilmen are able to let themselves in for a little graft.

I am not so optimistic as to think we can abolish useless student government, but, Mr. Editor, we can take one forward step. Why not eliminate all mention of the Student Council and its weighty problems from The Hatchet? Such a resolution would first of all absolve the student body of having to listen to political rantings, and secondly would tend to discourage to a great extent the political aspirants.

ANNOYED.

PERSONALS

By Therese Herman

Fashions for women are not for this column, but when it comes to men, did you notice the white gloves of Ken Patrum and the mess jacket of Harold Boutin at the not-so-far-past Pan Hel? Very, very swank.

The very attractive Phi Mu gracing one of the floats in the Cherry Blossom parade were Barbara Fries, Kitty Black, Mary Lee Yach, and Polly Noyes.

The D. A. R. pages at the Mayflower last Tuesday eve were serenely put in the minority (even if it was their ball) by G. W. stage, including Ev Woodward, Bruce Quigley, and Ralph and John Conkey.

Harold Stepler is in constant attendance at the G. W. Hospital these days, the reason, of course, being Mary Perrin, who had a recent appendicitis operation. A speedy recovery, Mary.

Bill Cheatham may not be able to be two places at once, but he made a very good try at it Friday night, dropping in at the Gingham Club during intermission at the Panhel prom with, in his own words, "the best looking delegate to the convention." Sororities please note.

Sam Carpenter should have a hard time concentrating on Law School finals this term, having recently become the proud father of a baby boy.

Throwing themselves into their roles with gusto, the members of the cast of "Journey's End" are seen daily greeting each other on campus with British military salutes.

Important exchanges noted in fraternity jewelry: Roy Rinker to Harriet Hartnett one S. A. E. pin; Clementina Lawrie, one Kappa Sig pin; Eleanor Boehs, a Beta insignia from Ted Kimball.

What blonde Pi Phi had a substitute escort at Panhel because the original "ran into a door" and couldn't dance with a black eye?

Representatives of G. W. fraternities, who, while declining to give their names, permit me to quote them as follows, "We met, saw and went with convention delegates, but hereafter and henceforth, it's Colonial co-eds for us."

"No corages" make a good "lead" for a story and also an attractive rule to break at the recent prom. After all, when the girls buy the dance tickets, SOMETHING ought to be done about it.

Alpha Delta Pi Has New Officers Katherine Kramer was recently elected president of Alpha Delta Pi to succeed Ruth Shauck. Other officers are: Katherine Campbell, vice president; Louise Rex, recording secretary; Kate Hopwood, corresponding secretary; and Mary Spelman, treasurer.

Baptist Students Elect The Baptist Student Union will hold elections tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. at Calvary Baptist Church.

A retreat in Bluemont, Va., will be held for the planning of the next year's work by the old and new officers, for the installation of new officers.

Alpha Pi Epsilon Initiates Five The annual initiation and banquet of Alpha Pi Epsilon, honorary home economics sorority, will be held at the Admiral Wednesday evening, April 25. The following new members have been chosen for their high scholastic standing: Lillian Lunenburg, Hazel Cragun, Eva Dake, Jean Kardell, and Bonnelle Thomas.

Chees Club Chooses Murphy President Richard Murphy was recently elected president of the Chees Club. The other officers are Robert Halder, vice president, and Seymour Podnos, secretary-treasurer.

The club meets on Monday nights from 7 to 11 p. m. It is planning to meet the Chees Clubs of other universities and will accept challenges.

Spring Shades, Materials Prevail At Panhellenic Prom at Willard Hotel

Spring shades and materials prevailed among the members of the fair sex at the Panhellenic Prom Friday night in the Grand Ballroom of the Willard Hotel.

Pale greens, yellows, blues, and pinks vied with the ever-popular white for predominance. Mary Lee Watkins, chairman of the affair, appeared in a chartreuse green crepe with a high neck and quaint puffed sleeves. Clementina Lawrie wore a stylishly simple black crepe with net sleeves, while Edith Spaulding, the third member of the committee, looked charming in a pale pink organdy with very full short sleeves. Clara Critchfield, president of the Council, wore brown organdy which had tricky straps crossed in the back and a very full skirt. Margaret Clark's yellow organdy featured accented pleated collar and cuffs, a green sash and a green bow at the front of the round collar. Virginia Venable wore brown and white plaid organdy with brown ruffles outlining the neck and armholes and a matching sash.

Blues Popular

Blue in all its many shades was the preferred color for many co-eds. Marie Smith's turquoise gown was set off by narrow ruffles up the back of the skirt and a brown belt. Adele Gusack wore blue crepe with square capelets in the back and black crepe belt and a matching bow at the front neckline. Elizabeth Bequette's pale blue organdy was ruffled around the neckline and trimmed by a pink sash. Kitty Kramer looked lovely in powder blue lace with matching jacket and hat. Edith Misk wore powder blue lace with a high stiff collar and long sleeves. Barbara Harrison also appeared in powder blue. Her dress had tiny ruffles around the neck line and at the wrists, and a full skirt.

Mousseline in Chic

Betsy Watkins' plain gold crepe had as its only ornament a turquoise sash and turquoise faced capelets. Dorothy Patterson looked charming in pale pink chiffon with puffed sleeves and tiers of ruffles at the back of the skirt. Harriet Atwell wore apple green organdy with narrow ruffled insets in the skirt, while Eva Dake's green mousseline also had ruffled insets in the skirt and ruffled neckline. "Scotty" Giffen's apple green mousseline featured cleverly folded bands in place of sleeves. Verna Vols's black crepe was topped by a stiff blue organdy jacket with ruffled sleeves.

Many White Gowns

Edna Kemberley came in a pink-flowered white taffeta with a wide pink sash. Mary Fulham's white lace had net capelets, a net ruffle at the bottom of the skirt, and a red taffeta sash. Jerry Dillman wore red-towered white taffeta whose red jacket had very full sleeves. Ruth Molyneux's white net had a narrowly ruffled skirt, ruffled sleeves, and a white taffeta sash. Dot Algire wore fitted white satin topped by a columbine collar of stiff white net.

COUNCIL WILL HOLD SPECIAL MEETING TO FIX REPRESENTATION

Be It Further Resolved, That any portion of this Constitution in conflict with the following provisions is hereby repealed.

The Hatchet pointed out last week that the present constitution provided there must be 750 students in a school to permit two representatives. According to statistics first brought to light by The Hatchet last week and again checked this week by the Registrar there were 717 students in the Law School for the first semester and there are now 739. In Columbian College the first semester enrollment was 513, this semester there are 494.

Balloting will take place between the hours of 10 a. m. and 1:30 p. m., and from 4 to 7:30 p. m. Polls will be located in the Yard at the back of Lisner Hall (Building J) if the weather permits, otherwise they will be placed in the Library Building, Stockton Hall and Corcoran Hall. The Elections Committee will act as supervisors of the polls.

There will be a joint meeting of the present Council and members of the newly elected group for the election of officers for the incoming Council, according to Bill Helvestine, president of the Council. Newly-appointed activity representatives are expected to be present at this meeting.

TROUBADOUR CASTING REACHES FINAL STAGE AFTER MANY TRYOUTS

(Continued from Page 1) Make the Most of It"; a fast fox trot, "The Trouble With Me Is You," sung in broken English by Amanda Chittum as Mimi, and the theme song, "Take It Easy." Throughout all the music in the show a theme can be noted, appearing sometimes in the melody and at other times in the accompaniment. Edmund Ziman, the composer, characterizes this unity as the Wagnerian "leit motif."

A musical number, which will be featured in the second act, is a scene in a Viennese opera house, where there is a dress rehearsal of Larry's opera. The singer tells the story of the princess who loved a handsome lieutenant while the members of the company pantomime the action to the strains of the ballet music.

Another unique feature of the show is a vigorous marching song burlesquing Gilbert and Sullivan.

10 WOMEN CONTEST FIESTA QUEEN ROLE, HONOR AND ACCLAIM

(Continued from Page 1) posing of the largest number of voices will be presented with a bronze plaque to be their permanent possession. The plaque will bear the seal of the University and will be engraved with the name of the winning group.

Two other important statements were made this week concerning new features of the Fiesta. The first had to do with a special, full-size edition of The Hatchet, which will appear shortly before the coronation of the Queen of the Fiesta, carrying the name of the winning candidate, and other important Fiesta news.

The other announcement was made Sunday night by Ray Heimburger, Dance Manager, to the effect that Bob Lavendar and his Society Orchestra have been signed as the fourth dance band to play in the Fiesta Dance Hall. Together with the three orchestras previously contracted, this announcement assures an abundance of good dance music at the Fiesta. The other bands are Jack Benson and his Orchestra, and two Morton units, the Maryland Collegians and the Le Grande Orchestra.

We think you'd be impressed if you saw Luckies being made. You'd see those clean, silky center leaves—and you really wouldn't have to be a tobacco expert to know why farmers get higher prices for them. They are the mildest leaves—they taste better.

You'd be impressed by Lucky Strike's famous process—"It's toasted"—designed for your throat protection. And we know that you'll be truly fascinated when you see how Luckies are rolled round and firm, and fully packed with long golden strands of choice tobaccos. That's why Luckies "keep in condition"—why you'll find that Luckies do not dry out—an important point to every smoker. And you'll get the full meaning of our statement that Luckies are always in all-ways kind to your throat.

Colonials Take Third Straight In Downing Terrors, 7-2

Griffith Invincible as Mates Make 14 Hits In Sharp Encounter

G. W. Outfielders Pull Griffith Out of Trouble With Circus Catches

Winning its third victory in four days, the Buff and Blue nine punched out a 7 to 2 decision over Western Maryland yesterday at Griffith Stadium to place itself in the ranks of the leading collegiates with three victories in four starts.

Behind the steady pitching of Cal Griffith, who seems perfectly at home on the mound in Griffith Stadium these days, the Colonials collected 14 hits and fielded faultlessly to atone for the defeat at the Terrors' hands last season. Fast fielding and seemingly impossible plays speeded up the game, the playing time being considerably under two hours, an almost unheard-of feat in college baseball.

Griff Rests Only Two Days
With only two days' rest, Griffith ascended the hill and scattered six alien hits nicely through the nine innings. He fanned six and not a Terror stroled to first on a base on balls. Young Calvin imitated the work of his famous uncle with his cool, heady pitching and with his mates fielding in a manner which must have astonished the big league magnate himself, the game was just a breeze for the home team after its four-run rally in the sixth canto.

In this merry sixth, "Fancy" Fitzgerald singled, his second stinging bingle of the day, and was pushed all the way home on Hoggy Albert's fifty two-base blow. On the throw in, Willis hurled the ball high over Cumberland's head and before the sphere was retrieved, Albert had crossed the plate. Then Marshall (winning hit) Melpolder hit for a base and was driven across the counting block by Clarence Berg's screaming triple. Griffith decided to help the cause along and singled Berg home.

There was no half-hearted swinging by the visitors. When they connected the ball went far into the outfield, and only sensational catches by Carns and Melpolder prevented more drastic damage from being done. As it was, half of Western Maryland's hits were for extra bases and were responsible for their tallies.

Right off the bat in round 2 Shepherd shot a liner into deep left, which was good for three sacks, but Ferrell fielded poorly and the ball got by him for a home run. Then Griffith settled down and there was no more Terror scoring until the eighth, when Frank Cumberland, erstwhile Central luminary, got into the triple spirit and clocked one for three bases near the Performances of the past week indicate that the baseball battle will resolve into a two-team battle in each league of the Greek series. Phi Sigma Kappa and Acacia in League A, and T. U. O. and Sigma Nu in League B chalked up their second win and exhibited superior power in doing so.

Phi Sig took over T. D. X. with an easy 14-2, which was counterparted by T. U. O. in their 24-3 decision from S. M. S.

Richmond U. Falls Before Late Rally, Scrivner's Hurling

Tenth Inning Single Accounts For Winning Run; Washington College Easy

After dropping games to the University of Vermont and the St. Mary's Celtics of Alexandria, the George Washington baseball team came to life and defeated teams representing Washington College of Chestertown, Md., and Richmond University by the respective scores of 11-2 and 5-4, before sparse gatherings at Griffith Stadium.

Richmond University lost its first baseball game of the season Saturday when the fighting sons of the Buff and Blue sneaked the winning tally across home plate in the tenth inning of the thrill-filled encounter.

Melpolder's Hit Wins
Victory came to the Colonial team in the tenth frame when Marshall Melpolder, utility man, singled sending Hoggy Albert home with the winning run. The game produced two more stars in Archie Scrivner and Everett Russell. Scrivner, Colonial flinger, pitched a two-hit game and retired ten batters via the three strike route. The stick work of Russell was the bright light of the game, with Ev banging out a home run and a double and figuring in four of the Colonial's five runs.

Although the Colonial team garnered 15 hits to Richmond's two, they were handicapped by the fact that Scrivner issued seven passes. Sneed and Lacy were responsible for the Virginians' two hits while Carns, Russell, Albert and Smith starred at bat for the Colonials, each ringing up two or more bingles to his credit.

The day before, behind the four-hit pitching of Calvin Griffith, the Colonial nine turned back the Washing-

Meet Virginians in First Game Away; Scrivner Reaches Form Against Spiders

Morris Pleased With Team's Dash and Timely Hitting In Recent Games

By John Busiek (Sports Editor)

Flushed with its recent success after a shaky start, the Colonial baseball team will be led into foreign territory tomorrow, meeting the Randolph-Macon nine at Ashland, Va. This is one of the few trips for Coach Morris' outfit and the genial leader is anxious to see what his boys will do on the road. Few teams are favored with the use of a big league park and Morris is wondering if his players have gone high-hat and won't play properly on a college field.

Team of Sluggers
The rotund coach had his faith in his team more than rewarded last week when the Richmond Spiders fell before G. W., 5-4, in one of the fastest college games Washington has seen. Not only did little Archie Scrivner come through when he was most needed, but the left hander regained his confidence and was able to bear down in the pinches without fear of losing his man or pitching a cripple down the alley.

There has been no question of Scrivner's native ability for the southpaw has an assortment of curves and a fast ball that rank him with the city's best. His tendency has been to "press" on every batter with the result that he tires himself rapidly and loses his touch. His 10-inning sojourn against the Spiders in which he allowed only two hits and was going strong at the end is a definite indication that he has reached top form.

Morris' Faith Rewarded
Morris also is pleased with the team's hitting and general field play. Richmond, with its unmarred record and gallops of publicity, was shaded by the Colonials in fielding and had

Varsity Beat Frosh In Practice Session

In place of the cancelled match with West Virginia, the varsity racket wielders took on the Freshmen Friday. Showing much better form, the regulars took all matches except one.

Spencer Howell, former Western High star, defeated Walker decisively 7-5, 6-0. Kent Boyle was the only yearling to extend his opponent, losing to Langtry 7-5, 46, 11-9.

Edwards (Varsity) defeated Dial, 6-4, 7-5; Robinson (Varsity) defeated Gwin, 6-1, 6-1; Bennett (Varsity) defeated Mitchell, 6-0, 6-3; Moore (Varsity) defeated Timberlake, 6-1, 6-4; Howell (Frosh) defeated Walker, 7-5, 6-0; Langtry (Varsity) defeated Boyle, 7-5, 4-6, 11-9. Doubles—Robinson and Edwards (Varsity) defeated Dial and Gwin, 6-3, 6-0; Moore and Walker, (Varsity) defeated Mitchell and Timberlake, 6-1, 3-6, 6-4; Pierce and Bennett (Varsity) defeated Howell and Brasted, 2-6, 7-5, 7-5.

Racquetters Meet Trio of Opponents In Week's Schedule; Lafayette Team Engages Colonials at Columbia Today

The Colonial tennis team, reaching the stretch of its schedule, meets Lafayette's racketers at Columbia Country Club at 1:30 this afternoon in the first of three matches listed for the week. Thursday Wake Forest furnishes the opposition for the Farrington-coached outfit while on Saturday the team travels over to Baltimore meeting Johns Hopkins.

Advance reports indicate that Wake Forest will be the toughest nut for the Colonials to crack, although Lafayette is somewhat of an unknown quantity and may spring a surprise today. The Leopards are in-and-outers on the court and little can be determined from their play so far. Last season they had only a fair team.

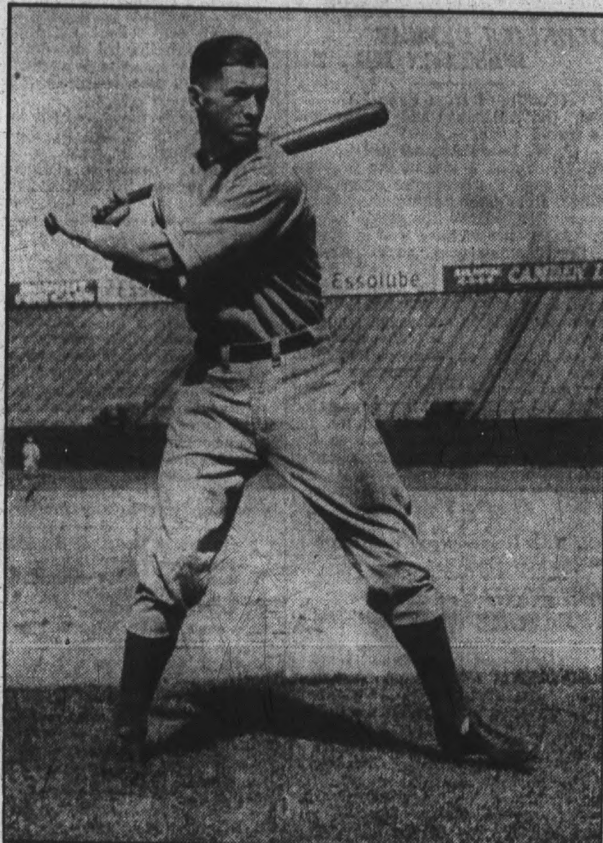

G. W.'s racket wielders beat Temple 6-3 in their first intercollegiate match this spring. Last Friday they trounced the Frosh in a practice test and appeared to be reaching excellent form for this week's heavy work. Ivan Edwards, who has been elevated to the number 1 post, was in fine fettle Friday and has set a tough pace for his mates to follow.

Ol Sol has given the South its usual break this spring and Wake Forest has been able to play regularly for a month while Northern teams have been held idle. North Carolina's crack outfit swamped the Deacons but the Tarheels have won 65 straight matches and cannot be counted as a true test of any "normal" team's strength. Wake Forest has easy victories over North Carolina State and Boston College to its credit, in addition to less noteworthy triumphs over Guilford College and Charlotte Country Club.

Davidson, which has an unusually strong team, defeated the Deacs and with North Carolina is the only squad to hold a victory over Wake Forest.

Coaches Enraged As Cherry Blossom Proceedings Throw Gridders For Loss

If anybody wants favors from "Possum" Jim or Len Walsh this week, they'd better approach the gym with fear and trembling. The reason: Another interruption in spring football practice.

Held indoors by the antics of old Juke Pluve for several weeks, the gridders finally got outside and down to hard work. This "hard work" was interrupted by rain or wet grounds every other day but Coaches Pixlee and Walsh just smiled. They remembered several years ago when they couldn't even practice every other day!

Then along comes the First Annual Cherry Blossom Festival presented by "Greater Washington." The heads of said Festival were horrified at the vision which appeared, certainly in the form of a nightmare.

Gridiron warriors to the right and cherry blossoms to the left! The contrast was too great. Result: The field next to the Tidal Basin was denied to Coach Pixlee amid many apologies and much weeping and wailing and shedding of tears.

Granted that one doesn't hear any complaints from the athletes—skull practice is much less tiring and even allows time to make those dates at 4 p. m. on the south side of G street! But football teams can't be drilled and trained on G street, despite the feminine arguments to the contrary. And the coaches are beginning to wonder if they will really accomplish anything more in this spring drill.

Bourke Floyd '35 says

"Gardner Bello-swing suits tell the entire style story from now till Labor Day." He says that "Groener of 1325 F Street has them in every color you can think of such as grey, blue, tan and brown, with a drape front at $34.50."—Adv.

Pre-Medics Defeat Pharmacists 6-4 in Intramural Opener

Engineers Nose Out Junior College 7-5; Simon and Rabenhorst Star

After a delayed start, intramural baseball got under way last week with two close games as the Pre-Medics downed the Pharmacists 6-4 in the opener Friday and the Engineers defeated their bitter rivals, Junior College, 7-5 on Saturday.

Mel Simon was in mid-season form and let the Pharmacists down with four hits and fanned eleven although his wildness was costly at times. The Pre-Medics collected six hits off Rubin and Wallace, one a home run by Forest who also cracked out a single. The Pharmacists got two runs off four walks and a hit in the third but then were helpless until the seventh when a fast minute rally fell two runs short.

Those arch enemies, the Engineers and Junior College, hooked up in a close but poorly played game that went to the former due mainly to the wildness of the J. C. battery combination. After a shaky start, Sheirry settled down and shut out the Juniors for the last four innings while his mates picked up two markers in the sixth off Clark to win the ball game. The Engineers seemed to have picked up another star shortstop in the person of Rabenhorst to replace the flashy Tommy Baldwin.

North Dakota Grid Drills Delayed By Bad Weather

At least one of G. W.'s opponents on the gridiron next fall is also being bothered by bad weather during spring training. The North Dakota squad has been forced indoors for the past week. This news should ease the minds of the Colonial mentors who have been also kept idle.

The Nodaks with a squad of 50 tugging at the leash for action will undoubtedly get outside today or tomorrow for intensive work on fundamentals.

Ball Players Wanted
All men in Columbian College School of Government, or the Law School who are interested in playing intramural baseball should report to "Zuzu" Stewart, manager of the Columbian College team, immediately as a team is being formed and players are needed.

Glee Clubs Schedule Concert for May 15

Student Council, Rousers Club and Band Sponsor Seventh Annual Program

With the active efforts of the Student Council, the Rousers Club, the Band, and other campus organizations, the seventh annual concert and dance to be presented by the Men's and Women's Glee Clubs on Wednesday evening, May 15, is assured a success, according to the managers of the two musical groups.

The concert will begin at 8:45 p. m. in the main ballroom of the Willard Hotel. Dancing is scheduled to start about 10:30. Leon Brusloff's orchestra has been engaged to provide the music for the dancing and will accompany the glee clubs in one or more of their mixed numbers during the concert.

The Student Council, which is sponsoring this year's concert and dance, has arranged to donate 50 per cent of the receipts to the University Band.

Both clubs have been holding intensive rehearsals for the past several weeks. Dr. Robert H. Harman, director, has arranged special numbers by the individual clubs as well as mixed chorals.

Tickets are $1.00 and are now on sale at the Willard Hotel, Droop's music store, the Witt-Hamill Music Company, the Bursar's office, the Alumni office, the Band, and the Student Council.

Journalistic Group Entertains Women

A reception in honor of the women members of the publication staffs will be given by Gamma Eta Zeta, honorary women's journalistic sorority tomorrow evening at 8:30 at the Kappa Delta house at 1756 K street N. W.

Three prominent women journalists will speak. They are Mrs. Laura Vitrey of the Washington Post; Mrs. Jane Ruby of the Washington News and Miss Marcelle Le Menager, alumni secretary of the University.

Preceding the reception, Catherine Phelps, Frances Hand and Therese Herman will be pledged by the sorority.

Dr. George B. Roth Speaks Over WMAL Radio Forum

Day by day, the public is injuring itself in the effort to be cured of its physical ills, Dr. George B. Roth, professor of pharmacology, pointed out in his speech on "Drugs and the Public," on the radio forum last Monday at 9:20 p. m. over station WMAL. Continuing, he explained how much harm was caused by harmful drugs in common use, and advocated effective legislation to protect the public.

Next week H. G. Spaulding, professor of law, will be the speaker on the forum.

R. Alfaro Wins Cup In Speaking Contest

Rogelio Alfaro was the winner of the freshman oratorical contest sponsored by Sigma Delta Phi last Tuesday night in Corcoran Hall. Alfaro, who spoke on "The Debt of Gratitude Which the United States Owes Panama," will receive a silver cup on class night.

Isabelle Counsellman, with an oration on "Extra-curricular Activities," won second place in the contest. Other contestants and the subjects of their orations were Mary Maxon, "Female Heroism"; Lottie M. Roark, "Choosing a Career"; and E. Compton Timberlake, "Unite the Army and Navy Corps."

 fence. Griffith balked and Cumberland was waved home.

G. W. Leads After Third
 G. W. capped a run in the first inning to open the fireworks when Zahn stroled, stole second and dashed to the plate on Fitzgerald's line single to center. After the visitors evened things up, the Colonials came back with two more in the third and were never headed thereafter. In this spurge, Carns, Morris' only southpaw swinger, hit for three bases and eased home as Russell singled. The latter went to second on an infield out and was balked to third. Hoggy Albert grounded to deep short and Russell tallied.

Marshall Melpolder, the young lad who put Saturday's game on ice for G. W., and was called a flash in the pan by the dailies, came back today with two nifty hits and several nice catches to prove himself of first-class caliber. Russell, Fitzgerald, Albert, and Smith each got a pair of safeties, along with Melpolder, to lead the batters for the day.

 ton College tossers in a one-sided affair. Griffith had things his own way the entire fray with the Buff and Blue players knocking out 13 hits during the nine innings.

Alumnus Prepares For World Cruise

Charles Miller, '31, to Collect Anthropological Data For Museums

Charles H. Miller, of the class of 1931, is preparing for a world cruise, beginning about June 15, aboard a private yacht. Ports visited will be numerous Pacific and South Sea islands, the Philippines, Java, Malay, States, India, Latin ports, Scandinavia, Russia and the British Isles.

The expedition is a semi-scientific one, and will collect anthropological data and articles for universities and museums. A broadcasting outfit aboard the boat will provide regular programs throughout the trip.

Mr. Miller's party, which is small, expects to visit places off the tourist routes, and will be gone for at least 18 months. Space is still available for two persons interested in such a cruise.

 no more dash in its infield work than Morris' combination which is getting smoother and faster with each game.

Hoggy Albert and Jimmy Smith, batting sixth and seventh, respectively, supplied three hits each in the Richmond game and gave unusual punch to the bottom of the lineup. Both had nifty doubles in their day's work and with the sluggers, Russell, Zahn and Fitzgerald, give Morris an array of batters to trouble any pitcher.

Frosh Netmen Face High School Teams

Victorious in its first match over Eastern High, the freshman tennis team swings into stiffer competition this week with matches against Central and Western. Tomorrow afternoon on the monument courts, the yearlings oppose the Mount Pleasant School boys while the match with Western's fast racketers is listed for Friday.

Both teams should give the cubs more of a battle than Eastern whose players failed to win a match in Saturday's contest at the Lincoln Park courts. Western is particularly outstanding, its teams having won the scholastic championship every year except two in the past decade. Winning tennis teams are the rule rather than the exception at the Georgetown school and the Colonial frosh will have their hands full Friday.

Western Seeks Revenge
 Last season Western dropped a 4-3 decision to Farrington's clever racket wielders and Coach Charley Bish vows his lads will turn the tide this time.

Central, while not as strong as Western, has produced some of the city's leading players in recent years and may spring an upset tomorrow.

Saturday's match with Eastern was little more than a workout for the up-and-coming first year men. Not only did G. W. sweep every match but the high school players lost every set. Only two cubs, Mitchell and Dial, were taken to 7-5 before winning.

Bar Association Organizes To Sponsor Bar Quiz Course

WHO'S WHO ON THE CAMPUS

Business manager of the Cherry Tree for the past three years, president of Omicron Delta Kappa, honorary service fraternity, a dance promoter of no mean ability, yet those do not even begin to complete the long list of activities in which Wendell Bain has taken part.

His social fraternity is Theta Upsilon Omega of which he is a past president. At one time, too, he was a vice president of Pi Delta Epsilon, honorary journalistic fraternity. He is a member of Delta Phi Epsilon, professional foreign service fraternity, as well. Among his other greek activities: he is a member of Gate and Key, and was for two years a member of the Interfraternity Council. Add to that the fact, that for the past two years he has been chairman of the Homecoming Ball, and that he was chairman of the social committee of the very successful Interfraternity Prom of last year, and then, perhaps, the reason for the high opinion which is universally held of him is self-evident.

First Spring Band Concert Scheduled for Tomorrow

The first of the annual spring band concerts, which have had a late start this spring due to bad weather, will be given tomorrow afternoon at 4:45 p. m. in the University yard. 6 about Cigarettes

As to the cigarette paper
 on Chesterfields

THIS reel of cigarette paper is sufficient to make 42,000 Chesterfield Cigarettes. It is of the finest manufacture.

In texture, in burning quality, in purity, it is as good as money can buy.

Cut open a Chesterfield cigarette. Remove the tobacco and hold the paper up to the light. If you know about paper, you will at once note the uniform texture—no holes, no light and dark places. Note also its dead white color.

If the paper is made right—that is, uniform—the cigarette will burn more evenly. If the paper is made right—there will be no taste to it and there will be no odor from the burning paper.

Other manufacturers use good cigarette paper; but there is no better paper made than that used on Chesterfields. You can count on that!
